Special Infant Care Clinic (SICC)

The Special Infant Care Clinic (SICC) has been caring for children since 1975, and thousands have been served since its inception. The purpose of the Special Infant Care Clinic is to provide medical and developmental follow-up for infants born prematurely or children with special medical or developmental needs. Many of the children seen in SICC are graduates of the Intensive Care Nurseries at WakeMed’s two hospitals, Rex Hospital, as well as other area hospitals.

Children Served
- Newborns to age three
- Graduates of the Intensive Care Nurseries
- Children with chronic medical problems affecting development
- Children whose parents or physicians have concerns or questions about their development

If you have questions about whether your child should be seen in this clinic, call the pediatric psychologist at 350-8527 or the neonatologist at 350-8545.

Services
- Discuss concerns of parents
- Provide comprehensive medical care for at-risk children
- Evaluate physical, mental and language development
- Help support parents in providing follow-up care for the needs of their children

Appointments
Referrals are accepted from pediatricians, family practitioners, Wake County Human Services, agencies of other counties, and other community agencies. Children who were previously patients of WakeMed Raleigh Campus, WakeMed Cary Hospital, Rex Hospital or other local hospitals may be given an appointment prior to their hospital discharge.

To schedule an appointment please call 350-8164.

Please remember to bring the following information to every appointment:
- The patient’s insurance or Medicaid cards
- The patient’s immunization records
- Medications taken by the patient
